On behalf of Dept. of Public Health Dentistry a batch of dental students guided by Dr.PrijithaAlex had an institutional visit to Dentcare, a dental lab at Muvattupuzha. The journey commenced at 10.15am and reached the lab by 11'o clock. The various casting systems-Emax and Titanium casting. Cobalt-Chromium alloy is used as the casting material was demonstrated at the laboratory. Many sections were incorporated in a single room which includes impression pouring, model preparation, trimming, die preparation, dye cutting, pinning department, duplicating, base pouring, carving and filling. Blue stone is used for base pouring and for filling a different colour stone, contrast to the colour of cast is used. The application of Anabond in 4 layers - 2 layers in gold and 2 layers silver. The experts explained about the bite fixing with glue stick using a glue gun. From there students were taken to articulating area then to wax work room. They used body wax, joint wax and cervical wax for making wax pattern. The thickness of wax pattern is determined using a Vernier calliper.

Then they took the students to packing section where details regarding the prosthesis to be fabricated are collected and the entered on a job card. The card contains the department name, date, time and name of the lab staff who is working on a particular prosthesis and also the patient's details. Along with there is a bar code. Tags of different colour are attached with the job card. Then students saw the investing procedure. They use Adentatech powder and liquid for investing. After this procedure the wax patterns were put on the furnace and then casting is done.

The casting reaches the insertion-finishing- polishing department. And then we entered into the opaque department where ceramic coating is done over the metal casting. These materials were then put on the ceramic body department and then to glazing department. These departments have skilled workers for carving and polishing the prosthesis. After fabrication final checking is done and the products are packed and delivered to the respective customers.

In addition, they have a separate work area for CAD-CAM system. Here the scanning, designing and milling are done using computer software and the products are finished and polished by workers. He also explained us a new technology introduced in their lab. It is DMLS-Direct Laser Sintering Technology. A machine named EOSINT which costs about seven crores was exported from Germany. It can fabricate about 250 units or more at a time. The Dentcare visit was a wonderful experience for the students. It provided them a lot of knowledge much more than what we read from our textbooks. We all were astonished by the discipline and punctuality of workers over there. The success of this dental lab is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction and skilful execution. This institution is an inspiration to all of us. From this visit we realised that patience, dedication and sacrifice will help us excel in this world.
