RESOURCE MOBILIZATION POLICY

Al-Azhar Dental College is a privately-funded institution that is part of the Noorul Islam Trust. The college places a strong emphasis on providing excellent resources to both its students and faculty members. To support its vision and mission, the institution has established a well-organized financial management system, with tuition fees being the primary source of revenue.

One of the ways the college generates revenue is through the provision of affordable and comfortable accommodations in its hostels, which are offered to students. The college efficiently manages these resources with guidance from a Financial Committee, ensuring that they are utilized effectively to benefit the students and faculty.

In addition to tuition and hostel fees, the college has an outpatient department (OPD) that serves as a revenue source. The OPD provides dental treatments and services to the local community, charging fees for these services. The income generated through treatment charges, imaging fees, lab charges and pharmacy sales at the OPD adds to the college's financial resources. The college also operates an evening clinic to provide time convenience to patients who may have difficulty scheduling dental appointments during traditional daytime hours. Our dental college encourages research projects for faculties and students funded by research organizations for faculties to support research activities and advancements in the field of dentistry.

To expand its reach and impact, the college operates satellite centers in remote areas. These centers not only provide dental services to underserved communities but also serve as additional revenue source for the institution. By fulfilling its social responsibility and addressing the oral health needs of remote areas, the college generates revenue that can be reinvested into improving its facilities and services.

Apart from these revenue streams, Al-Azhar Dental College receives donations from philanthropic organizations and individuals across the country. These donations contribute to infrastructure development and the implementation of new programs and initiatives. They enable the college to enhance its facilities, offer scholarships, conduct research, and continuously improve the quality of education and dental services provided.

Overall, the combination of tuition fees, hostel fees, revenue from the outpatient department, satellite centers, and generous donations allows Al-Azhar Dental College to sustainably manage its finances and continually invest in its resources. This ensures that the institution can provide an excellent learning and research environment for its students and faculty while serving the dental needs of the local community.
